Monmouth University

The Monmouth University School of Social Work recently launched the Community Care Telehealth Clinic (MUCCTC), a free, online counseling service with flexible hours for the external community. MUCCTC is staffed by supervised Monmouth University clinical social work graduate interns. With flexible hours and accessible from anywhere, the program provides therapeutic support for the adult population of New Jersey. Participants must be 18 years or older and cannot be a member of the Monmouth University community.

Fairleigh Dickinson University

Adult ADHD/Learning Disabilities Evaluation Program - The specialized program at the Center for Psychological Services was established to provide therapeutic services to adults with ADHD and related disorders, as well as conduct clinical research into adult ADHD. The services component of the clinic comprises two offerings: Assessment and Treatment. Doctoral level graduate students, who are supervised by licensed doctoral psychologists, provide services in the assessment and treatment programs. Individuals who prefer to be seen by a licensed psychologist can do so as well.
